Canon raises hackles of war-canoe crew

G'wood calls hearing on options for mill lots

By MICHAEL DANIELS

On Monday, Sept. 21 Greenwood residents will have a chance to speak their minds on the possibility of the town purchasing or otherwise acquiring a lot or lots from the Saunders Brothers dowel mill.

But they will not be making any decisions at that point.

Town selectmen voted unanimously Tuesday to call a public hearing, at which they could get a feel for town opinion, and — as Selectman Amy Chapman put it — "see if anybody has got some ideas."

Two current town buildings, the town office and town hall, have serious mold problems, due largely to the low elevations and high water tables of their lots.

If the town were forced to abandon the present town office and rebuild it on the current lot, the new structure would have to be built on a slab, Town Manager Kim Sparks noted.

There has also been talk of acquiring a mill lot adjacent to the town cemetery, for its possible future expansion.

And, Sparks said Tuesday, in conversations with her, residents have expressed interest in other mill lots, and/or the town "working a deal" in exchange for taking a one-acre piece of PCB-contaminated land the mill owners offered to give the town.

The owners have also offered to sell two pieces of land to the town: a six-acre parcel across Bird Hill Road from the town office (see "G'wood gets first dibs on six acres of mill land" at bethelcitizen.com), and a two-acre lot between the cemetery and Union Church.

The asking prices are $88,000

Jonaitis buys Moosehead Furniture in Monson

The former Moosehead Furniture plant in Monson was purchased last week by Louise Jonaitis, one of two investors who recently purchased the Saunders Brothers dowel mill in Locke Mills followed up last week by purchasing the former Moosehead Furniture plant in Monson.

Jonaitis, the owner of Grand State O' Maine Land Co. in Newry and Hanover, said she plans to revive the Moosehead brand and plans to have the mill making furniture again in three to six months.

She bought the Monson plant and its equipment at auction last Tuesday for $1.05 million.

Moosehead Furniture was formerly known as Moosehead Manufacturing, which went under in 2007. A business group formed and reopened Moosehead Furniture later that year, but it shut down two years later.

Hunters: IF&W needs one of your bear's teeth

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wildlife biologists are using extracted teeth from black bears to monitor Maine's bear population and determine how best to manage it.

The Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife is asking bear hunters to give up a tooth from their harvested animals in the name of science. In the past two years, 2,032 hunters have answered the call.

Biologists can establish a bear's age by cutting a cross-section of a tooth and counting the rings under a microscope, much the way a tree's age can be determined by counting the rings on a cross-section of trunk, said biologist Jennifer Vashon.

By determining the ages of the bears that are killed during each year's hunt, biologists can better estimate how many bears there are throughout the state and how old they are. This year's hunt began Aug. 30 and continues through Nov. 27.

"By having multiple years of that information, you can have a good ability to reconstruct the true population," Vashon said.

The wildlife department every 15 years produces an assessment of the state's black bear population that is used to develop a plan on how best to manage the population. The state's current bear management program aims to stabilize the bear population to maintain hunting and viewing opportunities while minimizing conflicts between bears and people.

At the time of the last assessment, in 1999, biologists estimated Maine's bruin population at 23,000. It is now thought to be between 23,000 and 30,000, Vashon said.

Biologists for years have monitored the bear popula-

Upton voters reject revaluation, 16-14

By ALISON ALOISIO

As one Upton resident put it, "it's business as usual," following the defeat last week of a proposal by selectmen to undertake the town's first revaluation in almost 30 years.

The vote at a special Town Meeting Thursday evening was 16-14 to reject the $34,000 project, which would also have included the purchase of computer software for recordkeeping. The work would have been done by T.A. Associates of West Paris.

Selectman Bob Brown said the state has repeatedly recommended a revaluation.

"We're so far behind on what values on what properties are actually worth," he told residents.

Before the meeting, selectmen had mailed an information sheet to residents. They provided examples of what they said were discrepancies in valuations.

A camp off Back Street with no plumbing, no electricity, accessibility only by 4-wheel-drive, no insulation, no central heat and in below-average condition, was valued at $35,099, they said.

Another camp/year round home on the same street with water, sewerage, electricity, a full basement, central heat and in good condition, was valued at $39,026.

The information sheet also provided examples of the percentage difference between what properties had sold for in recent years and the assessed values. That percentage, they said, should be at least 80. Most of the dozen examples were in the 50s, 60s and 70s ranges, with a low of 38 percent and a high of 80.

Tax Collector Jim Rector agreed with selectmen. "Everything is out of kilter. I've seen many examples of people

FD's to propose student firefighter class to Reg. 9

By ALISON ALOISIO

Seeking to bolster their ranks, area fire departments are proposing that the Region 9 School of Applied Technology offer a firefighter training curriculum.

Brad Wight of the Newry Fire Department described the plan Tuesday to that town's Board of Selectmen and asked for their support.

Region 9, located in Mexico, provides technical training to high schools in the area, including Telstar. The training program has not yet been formally presented to the Region 9 Board of Directors.

"There would be more than 400 hours of training," said Wight, under a Firefighter I curriculum. "If they get trained there it saves the town money, if it's paid for through the school."

The selectmen praised the idea, saying it might be a way for Newry to get more bang for the many bucks the town pays to SAD 44.

"It would be a good way to get some youth into the department," said chairman Jim Largess.

Wight said he had spoken with several representatives of Region 9, "and they're all for it."

Selectman Gary Wight, the NFD's former chief, said that realistically, with Newry's small student population, few town students would likely participate and benefit the NFD directly.

But, he said, if Telstar students from other towns en-

TAX INEQUITY, INANITY IN UPTON

To the Editor:

As stated in the Upton column, inconsistency in determining the valuation of shore properties and those of inland properties have been an issue in Upton for many years. But now there are even more inconsistencies. Many camps that have no facilities, are not finished either inside or outside, and have no access to maintained roads are assessed as high as year-round homes.

Shore properties are currently assessed "all the same." They shouldn't be. There are many factors and criteria that should determine the valuation of each piece of property individually in order to ensure fairness, regardless of its location.

At the Town Meeting Thursday there were many comments which I consider inane, a word my Webster defines as "Empty, insubstantial, lacking significance, meaning or point. Silly. Insignificant" and therefore, by definition, aptly used. Such as...

One man, who is presumably in the business of giving quotes and proposals to potential customers, questioned the wisdom of voters trusting Mr. Rainey to provide the services as he outlined them. Alrighty, then. One gentleman asked, as if he were moderator, for a show of hands of anyone who thinks his taxes are too high. Duh! If any home in Upton were located in another town, and all other things remained constant, the taxes would be much higher — that's not the point.

That wasn't the point of the meeting. One lady suggested Upton should pay for the education required for a couple "young" residents to become certified assessors. I'm not sure what "young" means to her, and I'm pretty sure she wasn't implying that "older" people are incapable of being educated. Is there one resident who does not have to work full time, that can (or wants to) meet her qualifications?

One man thought that since Upton has ignored the state's request for a revaluation for many years, and since there would be no financial repercussions for continuing to ignore it, we should continue on in the same manner regardless of fairness — because we can get away with it.

Somebody couldn't believe sheds were taxable. Another questioned the authority of selectmen to hold a Town Meeting whenever they "felt like it."

After the meeting, a loud voice was heard exclaiming something like "guess we took care of them, didn't we?" Yep, "inane" is aptly used to describe such comments.

Shore property owners, both voters and non-voters were well represented. Inland voters were not. That speaks volumes.

Why weren't the folks who complain all year long that the taxes are unfairly determined present to take a stand? Were some people afraid that assessors would see the woodshed that had been previously missed and fear that including it would raise their taxes?

That's no different than some of the shore property owners who are determined to keep their taxes the same, regardless of the discrepancies.

If nothing else, a higher representation of voters at all town meetings would more accurately represent the opinions of the town as a whole. Either way voters choose to vote on this issue, or on any others, their attendance would give them a chance to "speak their piece" and/or exchange a complaint for a vote.

I hope selectmen will try to correct the assessing issues by asking for a complete revaluation of the town in a subsequent Town Meeting.

With its acceptance, some taxes would remain the same, some would go down, and some would be higher, and all landowners would be paying their fair share.

'RESTORE AMERICA RALLY' REPORT

To the Editor:

I went to the Glenn Beck "Restore America Rally" in Washington, D.C. Aug. 28, on one of the many buses from Maine. It was the most moving experience I have ever been witness to.

I was a little concerned before I left because of comments made by the "New Black Panther Party" to be in attendance to create violence one way or another. I decided I couldn't let anyone, or any group, keep me from going through fear tactics, so off I went, albeit a little apprehensive.

Never have I seen a crowd that big. CBS said 87,000. (Does that surprise anyone?) Some said 300,000. I know there were a lot more than that. At the time I thought over 500,000. (After I got home I took an aerial photo on a grid and it came out to about 750,000.) I knew it was going to be a great day when, just as the introductory music started at 9:59, a large flock of geese came swooping down from the Washington Monument and flew just at tree level in perfect V formation the full length of the reflecting pool to the Lincoln Memorial then veered off out of sight. Much cheering and applause accompanied them.

Wow! Three-quarters of a million people and everyone I came in contact with was extremely polite and friendly. I hear that there wasn't one arrest at the event and when everyone had left there was hardly anything for the Park Service to pick up in the way of trash. We all lugged out what we brought in.

It was a non-political event with a heavy spiritual tone. I think the Silent Majority, through the Tea Party, has "finally" been awakened. It's time for "We the People" to take back our country from corrupt politicians no matter what party they are from.

My absolute favorite T-shirt that I saw at the rally was, "I CAN SEE NOVEMBER FROM MY HOUSE." Amen, brother, I can hardly wait!

and $37,000 respectively.

And the owners appear willing to deal, Sparks told the selectmen.

In a recent conversation, she said, Louise Jonaitis, one of the owners, told her: "If the town wants to sit down and brainstorm. Is or isn't interested in these two pieces. Is interested in other pieces the mill owns, make us an offer. And feel free to counter on these two."

As for the offer to give the town (which has potential access to federal clean-up funds) the contaminated lot, "It's on the back burner," Sparks said.

"They want to concentrate all their efforts on the mill and getting it open."

"They see it coming up again possibly sometime in the spring — them putting it back in our laps and asking us to take it on, and get it cleaned up"

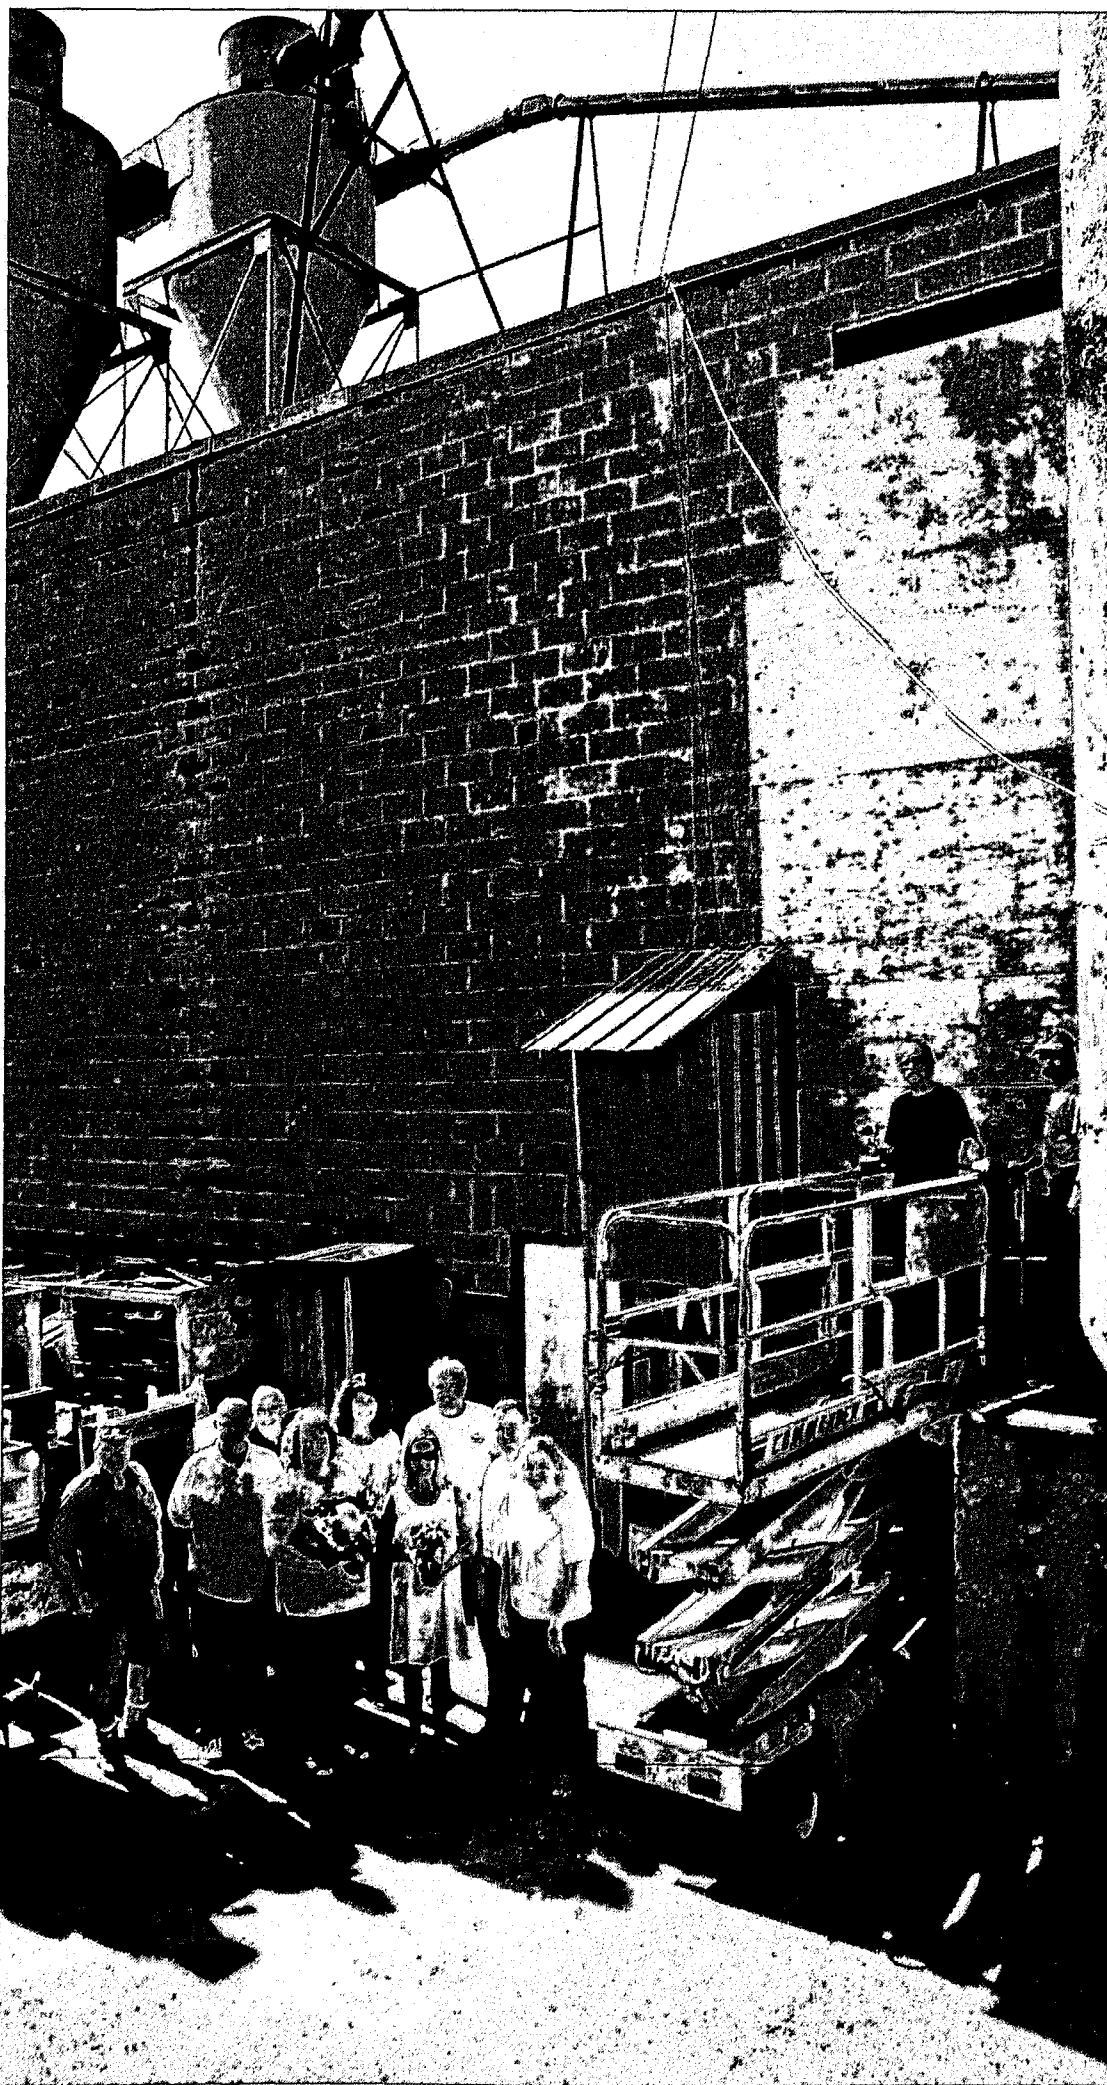

And, she noted, "DEF has to have some time to do a full inspection and their own testing."

Chapman said Tuesday that a public hearing at this point would provide an opportunity for the town to begin to come to grips with this array of possibilities.

"We haven't come up with any kind of a plan for the future municipal complex," she said.

"It would be putting the cart before the horse to talk of buying a piece of land, but certainly a hearing wouldn't be out of place."

It will be at 6 p.m., in the town office meeting room.

Chain-saw sharpening workshop

WATERFORD — Chain-saw sharpening will be the focus of a Sept. 11 SWOAM gathering sponsored by the Western Maine chapter of the Small Woodland Owners Association of Maine. Michael Pateneau, applications specialist for Stihl, will offer a clinic on sharpening techniques and tools as well as maintenance of the chain, bar and sprocket of a chain saw. Pateneau, formerly of Reid's Service Center in Oxford, has been with Stihl, based out of Connecticut, since 1996. He holds training seminars on gas-powered saws and tools throughout New England and the Northeast. The morning event will be held at the sawmill of SWOAM chapter President Bill Haynes on Sweden Road, which is off Routes 35 and 37 in South Waterford. From the Norway area, take Route 118 to Route 37 and follow the signs. From Bethel, pick up Route 35 in Waterford. ### Road, building spending OKed

WOODSTOCK — Selectmen Tuesday approved funds for road expenses and insulation for the Town Office. A snow-plow bid was awarded to Gary McKenna to plow three miles of the Concord Pond Road and .8 miles of the Milton Road for $13,250. They declined to take a lesser bid for $12,950 from Tyler Concrete because, they said, McKenna is geographically closer to the area to be plowed, and because they have had a good working relationship in the past. The board also awarded a $6,000 bid for plowing the Redding Road at Shagg Pond (the other side of Concord Pond) to Clifford Lowe. On another road issue, selectmen agreed to a plan to alternately pave and fine grade 3,400 feet of the Redding Road, which was washed out during the July 2009 heavy rain. The road was repaired last summer but it was too late in the season to get it paved. Funding will be provided by a combination of budgeted tax dollars and FEMA money. The paving will take place near where residences are located. The board also approved $4,176 to C and C Insulation to insulate the ceiling of the Town Office with cellulose. Town Manager Vern Maxfield said the town currently pays about $3,000 a year to heat the building, and the insulation is expected to pay for itself in two or three years. He also said the building would cool more easily in the summer.

paying too much and people paying too little. I want to make it fair."

The town has gotten along with making some of its own adjustments in valuations in recent years, selectmen said.

Former selectman Paul Casey said the town had adjusted land values two years ago based on comparisons to land in nearby Magalloway, which had had a recent revaluation.

But, he said, for the long term the job is better done by a certified appraiser.

Wade Rainey of T.A. Associates outlined how his firm would assess values by visiting individual properties to make measurements and gather other information, such as how buildings were constructed.

But some who spoke were skeptical of the need. One said he did not see the dated valuations as a problem, and that it was sufficient that the selectmen have the power to change valuations when needed.

Brown said he was not comfortable doing that because he does not have the experience.

Rainey also said if the town's overall valuations fall below 70 percent, the town could lose state reimbursements on tree growth lands.

But some residents said the town does not get a lot of money from the state anyway, and not much would be lost in return for saving $34,000 on a revaluation.

Last year Upton received $16,926 in tree growth reimbursement, according to town officials.

"So if we vote no' tonight, it's business as usual, with no big penalty anywhere," concluded Larry Nelson shortly before the vote.

The vote was taken by secret ballot in accordance with the wishes of the meeting-goers.

The revaluation was the only topic for the meeting, which lasted about an hour and 15 minutes and was moderated by Wendy Hanscom.

tion by reviewing hunter data and using radio collars that have been placed on several dozen bears across Maine to gauge population densities in given areas.

The tooth-aging program is simply another management tool to help measure population trends, Vashon said.

Last year, about two-thirds of the teeth submitted by hunters came from bears that were 3 years or older or younger, Vashon said.

The oldest bear was a 25-year-old female, and the oldest male bear was 20 years old.

Younger bears have a higher mortality rate than older bears.

They are more likely to cross roads and show up in people's yards, and are more vulnerable to hunters, she said.

"They're young and brash, don't think of everything and lack experience," she said.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Last week was certainly an interesting one in the weather department, a severe late summer heat wave and a serious threat of a hurricane. The weather people, or meteorologists as they prefer to be called, were downright giddy. They seemed to be drunk with anticipation.

I would imagine that most of this summer was a bit on the boring side for the forecasters. Week after week the forecasts were sunny and warm with the occasional chance of showers thrown in for good measure.

There were a few times when certain meteorologists, after attempting to make good weather sound exciting, looked like they were ready to fall asleep. Then along comes a week of record-breaking heat and a chance of a hurricane. Boy, did they perk up or what? And with good reason, the heat was absolutely relentless.

I felt badly for the kids and teachers being cooped up in classrooms that were sweltering. And that being the first week of school too. It must take a week or two when the kids go back to school before they get out of summer mode and settle down. Last week they probably didn't have the energy to be too disruptive, but I also doubt that their minds were very focused either.

In that heat I certainly wasn't very focused myself. I found that the only household chore I felt like doing was cleaning out the refrigerator. Try as I might, I just couldn't stretch that job out for six consecutive days.

Then along came the excitement and concern of Hurricane Earl. This would be the first hurricane to hit this area in many years. The meteorologists were practically foaming at the mouth as they reported on the progress of this level-four storm. The heat and the hurricane was all anyone talked about.

"It was sort of like planning for a really big event only to have it cancelled at the very last minute."

I went to the supermarket Thursday evening and noticed that large quantities of batteries, flashlights and bottled water were filling the shopping carts, mine included. We were getting ready to hunker down for the duration of the hurricane and preparing to withstand prolonged power outages. Us Mainers are a cautious bunch.

On Friday night I distributed flashlights in strategic locations throughout the house and broke out the emergency candles and kerosene lanterns. I was ready!

I kept looking out the window to see when Earl would hit my backyard. As we all now know Earl didn't hit my backyard or anyone else's. Earl was the hurricane that wasn't.

The meteorologists were quite disappointed and I have to admit I was a bit disappointed too. I'll at least admit it, but they won't. Now, don't get me wrong, I certainly didn't want to see anyone get hurt or to have widespread property damage, but after such meteorologists' hype, a little rain in the middle of the night just wasn't very exciting.

It was sort of like planning for a really big event only to have it cancelled at the very last minute.

I feel a little guilty for even thinking such things. I know how devastating hurricanes can be and I know that crops and apple orchards could have been wiped out right at harvest time. I also know it can be a tremendous expense in property damage and cleanup. So, yes, I feel a little guilty for being a little disappointed.

I guess having the hurricane that wasn't was a really good thing for everyone, except the meteorologists. They'll just have to go back to predicting warm and sunny with the occasional showers and try to stay awake.

I really don't want to have a hurricane hit anywhere, but the way I see it a good old thunder shower with loud thunder and bright lightening and no damage just might be the perfect storm for me and the disappointed meteorologists.

The War Canoe
The Bethel Outing Club, the (informal) Hastings Classic Canoe Museum, Tim Carter and Jeff Parsons came up with an idea of what Jeff Parsons termed an event of huge social, human and historical interest. The event was to bring one of Warren "Sonny" Hastings' classic Old Town wood and canvas canoes out of hibernation for a public appearance.

Mr. Parsons continued - the story with a historic war canoe as its main actor, comes before a mixture of "people and young folk and a few old duffers." The 26-foot-long canoe represents a group of men, including Sonny Hastings and Tim Carter, who bought the canoe so many years ago (some have passed away). Messrs. Hastings and Carter carried paddling history forward to our time, maintained their farms and their families, and can now share with younger generations a piece of history in three dimensions that came from the ingenuity of Native Americans hundreds of years ago.

Monday afternoon at the Bethel Inn Beach Club on Songo Pond three generations enjoyed the wholesome opportunity of paddling a classic canoe just as our first settlers were aided by the creators of this unique watercraft - the Indians of the Androscoggin River. The Old Town canoe which was paddled by more than 30 people Monday afternoon evolved from the birch bark canoes of the Penobscot Indians. On the humorous side of things: a canoe with ten people looked like an Androscoggin version of a cruise ship. To fit 10 people into a canoe with 10 seats meant that the people should all be size 10. Well Sunday's cruises fitted together well because some were in the size 6-8 range and some were in the size 11-12 range. Seating accommodations were shuffled accordingly.

The day before the Songo Pond outing, a Bethel Outdoor Adventure van with trailer ferried a canoe pickup crew of Coopers, Goldbergs, Seigels and Sarah Southam to the Hastings Farm in East Bethel where Sonny met us and took us into the inner sanctum of the Hastings Canoe Museum. One of the special craft we saw was a 1912 Old Town War Canoe.

Then very carefully the canoe to be used on Monday was taken, as Mr. Parsons described it, like a butterfly emerging from its chrysalis into the afternoon sunshine and very carefully loaded onto the waiting trailer. After that the whole crew gathered for a "we did it" photo. See photos at www.thebetheljournals.info/Images/War\_Canoe.pdf

Over the years the price of Old Town wood and canvas canoes has multiplied fantastically - in some cases from $100 to $3,000. eBay has a 1930 wooden Old Town canoe up for bid with the starting acceptable bid set at $3,000. Another online advertisement lists a new wood with canvas Old Town canoe, 16 feet long with a suggested retail price of $7,585.

Sonny Hastings told why prices for the wooden Old Town canoes went up quickly. The company employed Indians living in the Old Town area, Indian Island is a Penobscot reservation, who had native canoe making skills to make their canoes. The company first started business in 1900. (Its marketing strategy was to use the distribution network of the owner's very successful horse salve.) As Old Town, which was first named "Indian Old Town Canoes," became more and more successful making 200 to 400 canoes a month, competition from the dozen or so nearby canoe makers led to raids on Old Town's Indian labor pool with offers to come and work for them. This forced Old Town to keep increasing wages they paid in order to keep their best canoe craftsmen. Higher costs were passed on to customers. So it sounds like at least for once the Indian received a little better treatment from the White Man.

Other online sources note that Abenaki, Maine or Eastern Indian, canoes differed slightly from those of the larger Algonquin nation to which the Maine Indians belonged. These sources also note how some differences existed between canoes of the Penobscot and those of the Passamaquoddy who lived nearer the coast. Nevertheless, the 1912 Old Town war canoe in the Hastings Museum compared to the authentic Old Town war canoe we saw Monday; it looked very much the same except for seating. Old Town at one time made canoes that were up to 34 feet long - and these were called war canoes of course.

Cleaning up the Androscoggin inspired a group of Bethelites to join in a Labor Day canoe cruise party. Apparently this tradition has passed away. During these last few weeks, canoe floats down the Androscoggin have filled the stream from Gilead to Bethel.

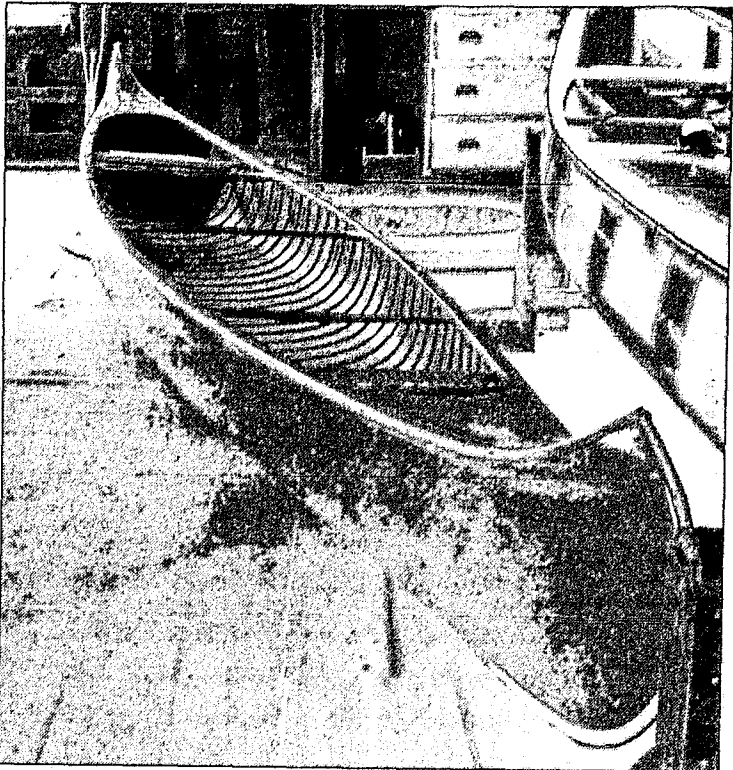

Jumping to an entirely different place, Virginia, Kathy and I made as our first canoe trip, a 25-mile long one, 42 years ago now down the Rappahannock River but in an aluminum canoe. Our trip carried us through many changes in countryside.

In one place though, the river took us through a large farm with cattle - including some bulls - grazing on both sides of the river which at that point was very shallow. The cows waded back and forth to change sides, get a drink or just cool off as we slowly paddled through them. At one point we drifted by some cows that we accidentally bumped with the canoe. It did seem strange to be able to sit in a canoe, close enough to milk them and see the cow looking down at you. Kathy was urging me to get going - ASAP.

To wrap this up, I must agree with Jeff Parsons. Having a chance to actually ride in an historic canoe that has been adapted from Maine's Native American experience is an occasion to remember. To Bethel Outing Club and all concerned - what a great way to celebrate Labor Day!

West Bethel

By Lorrie Hoeh

As Jake and I started on our Labor Day morning walk, the temperature was a nippy 52 degrees, and it felt distinctly like fall. Of course, later in the day the sun warmed things up considerably. However, the bracken ferns and other understory plants in the woods all had that tarnished look that tells you that summer is definitely winding down.

The tomatoes and cukes are finally slowing down, so we no longer have to keep guests captive until they agree to take some home. Mike was mowing the lawn on Monday, and all of a sudden I heard what sounded like gunshots, and the mower stopped. Of course, it was a backfire, caused by a worn connection to the spark plug, a condition that he was later able to remedy. But not before we had a few startled neighbors.

On Sunday we had a family picnic at the Garden of Eden. We were pleasantly surprised to learn that our Boston family would join us, too. Kate and Ken took their older son, Owen, back to UMass/Amherst on Friday for the start of his sophomore year. Then on Saturday they brought younger son, Robbie, with them for an overnight visit, and they joined the picnic on Sunday. Cousins Eric and Lucia Schwarz; nephew and neighbor Peter Schwarz and his wife, Kathy; Martha and Kirk Siegel, with Andrew; Kate, Ken, and Robbie Griffin; Cyndy, Paul, and Louisa Stancioff, as well as their Danish exchange student, the Innmans from Flat Road; and later Molly Siegel were all there to play croquet, eat burgers, franks, a variety of salads, and a blackberry crisp made by Martha, not to mention watermelon and ice cream.

It's always lovely to have the youngest generation around and get caught up on their latest doings. Having an exchange student in the mix just adds to the fun. We also had a short visit from Chris Schwarz, on his way back to UMO for the year. Nick Schwarz and Calli Inman missed the party, because they were involved with activities at Gould Academy. Imagine my surprise when I received a phone call from Hollywood, Calif., last week. Ray Coulombe, who used to live on the Flat Road and now calls Tinseltown home, had a question about a birthday celebration I mentioned a while back, and I referred him to someone who, I hope, would be able to answer his query. Ray wishes to say a big hello to everyone who remembers him.

Word from Pauline Applin is that this past weekend was the winding down of the Grange's flea market sales with Monday, Labor Day, being the last day. She says they'll be packing everything into storage until next July.

Grangers will now be turning their energies to displays at the fairs. Several members will be at Oxford County Fairgrounds on Sept. 10, 11, and 13, installing a display in the Ag building. Everyone is encouraged to visit the Agricultural Center at the fair. You will see fancywork, crafted items, baked goods, preserves, and all the "fruits of the harvest" from individuals, as well as Granges. The display hall will be open Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Sept. 15-17, from noon to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 18, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Seniors Day is Sept. 16 when seniors will be admitted at a reduced rate of $5.

This week the Outing Club was having a family outing on Songo Pond Monday evening, as well as a business meeting and potluck supper. Plans are under way for this year's big ski sale, Oct. 29 and 30.

On Wednesday the Western Mountains Senior College held its annual meeting and class sign-up, followed by an old-fashioned summer camp-style picnic, including s'mores, and a sing-along. Good times were had by all. Please keep those e-mails and phone calls coming if you want to see your local news in print: dhoe@megalink.net; 824-2917.

THE GEOMETRY TRAIN—Columnist Don Bennett took these photos on a July evening of two Canadian Pacific passenger cars passing through Bethel behind a St. Lawrence & Atlantic engine. But there were no passengers in the four-car train. Instead, it was a "geometry train," said Ed Foley, the company's general manager. The cars hold equipment that provide readings about the alignment and safety of the track. The train, Foley said, "measures all track geometry features — gauge, curvatures and surface — when under a load. Our track inspectors visually verify all of these features at least once and in some instances twice every week. This geometry train measures annually the same features while simulating a train load. It nicely complements our intimate knowledge of our track structure and allows us to do a better maintenance job."

Upton

By Laurie Brown

Last Monday I got totally involved in pyrography and stayed that way all day. Tuesday morning I realized I'd forgotten to write the column. Sorry.

A 17-year-old, who was staying at Keith Leo's camp on Back Street with friends, was in a 4-wheeler accident last Saturday. The ambulance took him to Colebrook hospital.

From there he was flown to Portland. He had a broken wrist and head injuries, but his prognosis is good for a full recovery.

Deborah Judkins has a broken kneecap. She may need surgery. Hope your recovery is complete and swift, Deborah.

Seth Brennon's annual pig roast last Saturday was great. The food, as usual, was plentiful and beyond delicious.

Voters at the special Town Meeting on Thursday, in a 16-

14 vote, rejected the proposal to hire an outside, professional assessor, Wade Rainey, to do a town-wide, total revaluation. There was much discussion prior to the vote, much of which, in my opinion was inane.

Article 26 in the 1919 Annual Report reads, "To see if the town will vote and instruct the assessors to inspect the Real Estate in said town in order that they may be better qualified to make an equal valuation." Included in the selectmen's report in the 1964 Town Report was this statement written about the findings of the State Assessors' examination of the valuation book: "Their main criticism of the local assessment was the relative low valuation of shore property in respect to other property." Both at the Town Meeting and in a letter sent to all voters prior to the meeting, selectmen addressed not only the unequal valuation between shore properties and inland properties, but also the discrepancy in valuations of camps without plumbing, electricity, unfinished interiors and exteriors, and without access to maintained to that of year-round homes with all those little niceties.

Selectmen are willing to answer any questions explaining how the assessing and valuation should be determined, and why they have determined that a complete, town-wide valuation is necessary for all properties to be assessed by the same standard and formula.

Many voters have requested the selectmen to try again.

My commentary and recap of the Town Meeting has been sent to the "letters to the editor" section of the Bethel Citizen.

Saturday night Joe and Penny Bernier had a BBQ and a camp fire. The food was delicious, as usual. Bobby Thompson updated us all on his mouse stories. For a long time Bobby was pretty proud of himself for having mouse-proofed his camp. Lately, however, the little critters have been coming in, tormenting him by eating his cheese and avoiding his traps. For each one that has been caught, it seems that five more have taken its place — each one hungrier and messier than the other. Bobby has been just plain frustrated. However, by thorough probing and investigative techniques, Bobby has determined that Bob Brown is the cause of his mouse problem! After Bob Brown closes up the critters' access in the roof, and, if Bobby Thompson can then get rid of the ones inside faster than they can multiply, he might again have a rodent-free camp and be able to sleep peacefully. Good luck, Bobby T.

Charlie Felt celebrated his birthday with friends and family that he hadn't seen for quite a while. He had a beautiful cake and a wonderful time.

Nancy Thew has an ongoing spread sale at her home on Thistle Street.

Have a wonderful week. Selah

The Andover Historical Society met on Aug. 31. Present were Trudy Akers, Bev Swan, Eda Perkins, Norma Farrington and Dinah Cutting. They would like to extend their gratitude to Ronnie White for being the "groundskeeper" at the Historical Building in East Andover for many years. Also to Julia Gribbon at Foxgloves and Daisy's for the beautiful arrangements of flowers in the pot in front of the Andover Historical Society building.

The Andover Historical Society would welcome and appreciate new members, as the A.H.S. has few members and they share a great responsibility in securing Andover's history.

Happy birthday today, Sept. 9, to Lisa Gammon. Several from town attended the Mountain Valley football game on Friday night.

It was pushed up an hour in anticipation of hurricane Earl!

Enjoy the weekend.

Gilead

By Lin Chapman

After a few days of 90-degree weather, it seemed nice to have 60-70 degrees over the weekend with a nice breeze on Sunday.

There is a lot of traffic this Labor Day weekend. It started in about 10 a.m. on Sunday morning and continued throughout the day.

My brother, Steve McLain, said that he had recent phone calls from his sons, Stephen and Joe. Stephen is still in the country of Norway and Joe is in Montana. Steve and Lisa are always happy to hear from their sons. Their other son, Brad, and Carole stopped by this past weekend.

Things have been pretty quiet in Gilead, I guess. It would be nice to have a little news from those who live in town.

There will be another yard sale at the Town Hall on the weekend of Sept. 18. Keep an eye out for ads and further information.

Gilead Historical Society
The GHS will be holding the Annual Meeting on Saturday, Sept. 25, at the Town Hall. There will be a Potluck Lunch at 1 p.m. with the meeting following around 2 p.m. The lunch is open to the public and anyone is welcome to stay for the meeting. Just bring some kind of food item to share for lunch.

Hanover

By Clem Worcester

A camera was lost recently, possibly in the area of Gardner Roberts Memorial Library and the Hanover Town Office. If anyone has found it or does find the camera it can be turned in at the library or Town Office.

The very hot, humid weather last week finally gave in following Friday night's rainstorm with nice weather for the Labor Day weekend. Hopefully everyone was able to enjoy the drier and cooler weather.

Get well wishes go to Elsie Fortin. She was taken to Rumford Hospital Saturday evening by ambulance.

The Hanover Planning Board met Sept. 1 with Darlene Baker as Acting Chairman. Code Enforcement Officer John Gauthier informed the Board that three new houses were being built in Hanover Pines Subdivision this summer.

The gray fox puppies have reappeared again at a residence along the Howard Pond Road. In the same area coyotes howling at night prompted residents to keep unattended children and small pets inside especially in the evening. Weekend guests of Donna and Clem Worcester were Brian and Sara Worcester and children Kaylynn, Shawnee and Makala from Carthage.

We have heard from our cousin, Cindy Graham of West Roxbury, Mass., that she continues to recover from a stroke suffered earlier this year. Cindy was one of the four daughters of Ralph and Freda Worcester Carpenter from Dummerston, Vt. She is currently staying with her daughter Shelly.

Joan Tucker is reported to be a patient at the Maine Veterans' Home in South Paris following a fall at her residence. She formerly lived in an apartment in Hanover after moving from her family homestead at Rumford Corner.

Mason

By Richard Grover

Grover's westward trip cont'd.

Our first stop after daughter Cheryl's was Springfield, Ill., where we visited Lincoln's home and the Lincoln Museum. This was very moving, especially for a Civil War buff. The museum presentations of the reactions of people across the country to the train carrying the body of the assassinated President made it seem as if it happened only yesterday. After leaving Springfield, we headed across Missouri to St. Joseph, near where we planned to stay at Big Lake State Park near the Missouri River. We found Big Lake

Janice Bjorkland will bathe and groom your pet in the place where both of you feel most comfortable — your home. Her service is particularly recommended for pets who are fragile, older, nervous in a salon environment, have health problems or just like being at home. She provides a variety of grooming choices, including The Works Bath and Brush, The Works Mini Groom and The Works Full Groom, at prices ranging from $15 to $65 (plus a travel fee based on location). She does both dogs and cats. Janice has a lifelong background in pet care — she has a bachelor's degree in animal science from the University of Connecticut, has worked as an animal health sales representative, and has bred, trained and shown Jack Russell Terriers. closed because it had flooded out in June and had still not opened due to damage to the facilities there. The campground host was there, though, and he told us there was a KOA campground at Rockport, Mo., about 50 miles further north.

As we approached Rockport, we encountered a concentration of heavy thunderstorms. We made it to the KOA campground there, checked in and waited for a letup in the rain to set up the camper. Shortly after supper, it stopped raining for a while, so I took Snuffy for his evening walk; it turned out to be a brief one, because I noticed the sky getting darker again, and another thunderstorm approached from the southeast instead of the usual southwest. By the time we got back to the camper it was already starting to rain, and it soon became a deluge, punctuated by brilliant flashes of lightning followed immediately by crashes of thunder. This continued for hours, and, for once, Snuffy consented to sleep in the camper with us (on the floor, not in our bed, however.) Snuffy does not like thunderstorms any better than Monal Next morning was still cloudy, but dry, but I found the two 2x6's I had put down in front of our camper steps to bridge some of the rain runoff had floated past the front of the camper before hanging up.

Passing through western Iowa near Onawa, Iowa, we detoured through a state park called Preparation Canyon. This area of the ridges and prairie was settled in the 1850s by Mormons who dedicated themselves to preparation for the afterlife, hence the name of the canyon. Here we noticed what appeared to be a wide swath of uprooted and "de-topped" trees passing across the park road. A passer-by confirmed that there had indeed been a devastating tornado through there a few years ago, which had killed three boy scouts who were camping in the valley below the ridge where our current road ran. This man could not tell us what types of trees and/or shrubs had been planted along the path of the tornado. We were curious because the plants had been set out inside bright yellow cylinders of plastic about four or five feet tall. The cylinders presumably protected the plants inside from hungry predators (deer?) and could be seen scattered throughout the tornado area as far as we could see from the road.

When we reached the central part of southern South Dakota, the wind came up. It was from the northwest (our right) and grew stronger the farther west we drove. I began to worry that we might encounter a rogue wind gust that would tip over our camper. The buffeting from the wind began causing us to veer right and left, making it hard to stay in our travel lane, and we decided to camp in Murdo, S.D., about 150 miles short of daughter Anita's home in Custer, S.D., where we would visit for a few days. Next day dawned calm and nice.

West Paris

By Joyce Lamb

At last the hot weather is cooling off. The fan is again in the attic and maybe it can remain there for the rest of this year. This must have been the hottest summer ever. Cucumbers and string beans must be about done for this year. The tomatoes are still ripening and the flowers are going to seed to wait for next spring.

At the West Paris Unitarian Universalist on Sunday, Sept. 12, the Rev. Richard Beal will conduct the service. It will be the first Sunday service to start the new church year. A water ceremony will be held. Please bring a small bottle of water from a place you visited this past summer.

Peg Perham fell down her cellar stairs, the whole length, last Monday evening. Beverly and Vince Stevens took her to Stephens Memorial Hospital where the gash in her right knee required eleven stitches. After X-rays they returned home. In the morning the hospital called for her to go back for she had a collapsed, punctured lung, broken ribs, and a fractured left wrist. A drain was put into the lung cavity and a splint was applied for her wrist. She was admitted for four days and is now at home. Grandchildren spent the weekend with her. Her husband, Joseph, is in Ledgeview for a few days. Several are bringing in food for her and more of us, including the Cotton Tops, will not let her go hungry. She is her usual cheerful self. Hurry and get well and get back to the morning walks.

Ethelyn Turner spent a few days last week with her sister, Cynthia, at her camp in Locke Mills. On Tuesday cousins met at the camp for their yearly luncheon and good time. Those present were Marilyn and Jim Greenacre of Buxton, Ethelyn Turner of Paris, Joyce Lamb of West Paris, and hostess Cynthia Lamb. We got caught up on each other's families.

Cynthia Lamb spent the Holiday weekend with her daughter, Natalie Morse, in Oakland.

This week muffin got a bag of a cat Party Mix so now enjoys a bit of that about twice a day. When I grew up on a small village farm, our cats had milk and table scraps. Times have changed.

Waterford

By Rockie Graham

This was a great weekend! The weather held something for everyone. The mornings were cool; the afternoons were warm and the evenings were cool again. There was even a little rain for the rest of the mix.

Our Anniversary/Housewarming Party was a huge success. People brought all sorts of food and plants and most importantly, themselves. It was a great mix of people and all had a great time a good food to eat. Now we have some planting to do.

Monday, the 13th, the Socrates Club will meet in Waterford at the Library. They meet from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and the topic will be "What is the Responsibility Oxford County Fair begins Sept. 12 and friend Lee has told me she will be teaching canning all week. I think that is a class we have to take.

Waterford, Harrison and North Bridgton libraries have been selected to offer a "Let's Talk About It" free reading and discussion group. It is sponsored by the Maine Humanities Group and begins Sept. 17 at North Bridgton Library and runs till Nov. 12. Session 1 and 2 are in North Bridgton, Session 3 is at Waterford and the last two are in Harrison. They are at 3 p.m. Books are available at the libraries.

David's little brother visited us this weekend. He is all grown up and may move to Maine in the future. He enjoyed his visit and plans to return soon.

That is all for this week. Have a great week and enjoy the fall-like weather when it is here.

Albany

By Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. Strange the weather we're getting: last week was summer - the summer weather we really hadn't had all summer. This week promises to be more seasonal.

Judith Colletta called to let us know that our old neighbor, Bud Bowden, passed on

HELP FOR THE TRAIL PROJECT—A group of 16-18 year-old young men who recently completed a 28-day class with Outward Bound in Newry helped out with landscaping on the new trail along the Gateway Parcel in Bethel. They spread loam along the trail's edge, which will be planted with grass seed. Outward Bound requires a community service component in many of its classes. This group was from all over the Northeast and beyond. (Photo: A. Aloisio) last weekend. The details for this coming weekend's visitation and services are in the paper. Bud was a wonderful neighbor; he welcomed our children over, and always had a kind word and advice to give. Dana fondly recalls how happy the old gentleman had been when we managed to save the apple tree on our side lawn when we first moved in. The poor thing had been struck by lightning and was near death, but Dana tended it and, with some advice from Bud himself, managed to keep it alive. It now flourishes and even produces some fairly nice fruit. Bud will definitely be missed.

As an FYI: I usually try and have my column in no later than Tuesday mornings. If you have something you wish me to include, please e-mail me at joyfulnoises2003@yahoo.com or call at 824-4890. I would be more than happy to include it if I can.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless & Keep.

East Bethel

By Wally Ritz

I do hope everyone enjoyed their Labor Day weekend. Let me know, please, what you all did and about the fun you had. I thought it would have been impolite to call and possibly interrupt gatherings happening. It will be nice to hear all about it in the course of this week. We sure did have great weather as it was neither too hot nor too cold.

I spent my weekend in part working and spending time with friends and family. It was quite nice and enjoyable. I especially want to thank John and Ryan Coolidge for taking my grandson, Ben, target practicing to help him get ready for his first-ever season of hunting with you.

Alder River Grange will have a regular meeting on Sept. 10 with a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. and the meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the Hall.

Alder River Grange will join Pleasant Valley Grange and Rumford Grange on Sept. 19 for installation of officers at Rumford Grange. There will be a noontime potluck dinner and the meeting afterward.

Howard Fales of West Redding, Conn., visited with George Haines, Nancy Mercer and Peter Haines at the home of Peter Haines on Aug. 22.

Aline Dupont did let me know that she went to visit her Dad at the Berlin Hospital and that it was a real nice visit. We are all thinking of you, Aline.

The suggested "Mock Elections" for East Bethel are shaping up quite nicely. So be sure to cast your votes still and read the results next week. Just call me at 824-3220 or e-mail han@megalink.net. Join the fun and just "do it." Have a great week.

Bryant Pond

By Alice Hoyt

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Judith Grover tent 17 with the help of Larry Bonney erected the signs at the Veterans Memorial Honor Roll between the Grange Hall and the Library on Main Street, Bryant Pond, on Saturday, Sept. 4. The Daughters are trying to earn enough money to enlarge the Honor Roll to accommodate all Veterans past, present and future. Due to lack of space some names have never been added to the present Honor Roll and others are in the wrong place. We would like to name the Civil War Veterans from our area also. These men were willing to fight and some even died for our freedom. The least we can do is honor them in this way.

Will you help, with a donation? It is tax deductible and a receipt will be given for each donation. We currently have about $2,500, thanks to a Special Beano by Jackson-Silver Post and donations from some organizations and individuals and lawn sales.

Please mail any donations large or small to Alice Hoyt, PO Box 105, Bryant Pond, ME 04219 or Elsie Bonney, 28 Paris Road, Bethel, ME 04217.

The material for the signs were donated by Elsie Bonney, the signs were made by Marybeth Hoover and put up by Larry Bonney. Much thanks to them. Also thanks to all who have already donated. Checks may be made out to Veterans Monument Fund.

Remember the Whitman Library program today (Thursday, Sept. 9) at 2 p.m. Floyd Keniston will be guest speaker telling of his experiences at Pearl Harbor on Sept. 7, 1941. All are welcome at no charge; light refreshments will be served.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday school at 9:15, morning worship at 10:30, evening service at 6. Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. is prayer meeting. Looking ahead, Sept. 11 at 7 a.m. is Men's Breakfast at Calvary Bible Church in Andover. Sept. 26 Don and Carol Merritt will be at both services that Sunday.

On Saturday, Aug. 28, the Church picnic was held at Arlene MacKillop's. It was a beautiful day with a good crowd and plenty of food. Around 85 attended.

Judith Grover tent will hold a picnic and meeting with flag retiring ceremony on Monday, Sept. 13 at Sally Sawyer's. Hamburg and hot dogs will be provided; please bring a salad, dessert, chips or drink to share. This is at 6 p.m. Norway and Stoneham tents are invited to join us.

The Historical Society has many nice cookbooks you can copy recipes out of. Both men and women do a lot of cooking these days, so do look over the offerings in this regard.

The resources of the Historical Museum and Research Library cover so many things. They will surprise you once you start looking around at a meeting this fall. Do come.

The research library contains biographies, antique books, travel volumes, works on wildlife and flowers, art, philosophy, literature, music and hobbies, transportation, and of course all aspects of history.

There are many notebooks of Bryant Pond materials and all of Ruby Emery's writing on local history.

Martha Day paintings at West Paris

The Friends of the West Paris Library are honored to be hosting a retrospective of the paintings of Martha Day, (1912-2006). "Martha's Vision" is the first display of art work in the library's new addition, and it is fitting that this distinction should belong to Martha Day. She was a co-founder of the Friends of the Library group, and served on the library's Board of Trustees. As an avid reader, she was a charter member of a local book discussion group, that today is entering its 45th year.

All who knew Martha were impressed by her love of knowledge, which led her to take courses throughout her life, including summer vacations attending Elder Hostels in New England. She valued swimming, walking, and yoga. She had a very active life, which comprised both extensive community service, and a pursuit of her own considerable talent in drama, music, and painting.

Jane Wheeler and Eve Reid, Martha's daughters, say their mother was a "late bloomer" as an artist. She began to paint in her 50s, with a correspondence course, followed by instruction with various artists through Adult Ed. She became a member of the Western Maine Art Group. A previous show was held at Katie's Kitchen at Snow Falls, which resulted in her selling some of her work. She continued painting, purely for her own pleasure, finishing her final painting at the age of 80. Martha's granddaughter, Denise Birgin, says "Although she never considered herself an artist, there are plenty who beg to differ, as those who have her art enjoy it each and every day."

Twelve of Martha's works will be on display at the library. She worked mostly in oils, and many of the paintings are landscapes, such as "Autumn," "Secluded Inlet," and "Special Place." There is also one pen and ink, "Hooded Merganser." The other genre Martha favored was still life. A fine example of her meditative style is the oil, "Bouquet in Copper Pot." Her draftsmanship and colors have an assured clarity throughout all her works, expressing a refreshing tranquility.

Most of the paintings are on loan from family, with the addition of a still life from the West Paris Universalist Church, where Martha was a member. "Spring Flowers" is on loan from the friend who took her to church when she could no longer drive.

The opening reception for "Martha's Vision" will be at the West Paris Library on Main Street from 5:30 to 7:30 pm, Friday, Sept. 10. There is parking behind the library, off Park Street.

Martha's work will continue to be on display through Oct. 30, during library hours: Monday and Friday, 1:30-6; Wednesday, 1:30-7; Saturday, 10-2. FMI, 674-2004.

BHS: annual meeting, barn tour

The Bethel Historical Society will hold its 44th Annual Meeting on Thursday, Sept. 16, in the Dr. Moses Mason House Exhibit Hall beginning with a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper followed by committee reports and election of officers and trustees. In addition, several items from the collection will be highlighted and Telstar Regional High School students who participated in a special local history course this summer will share some of their insights.

Jackie Bell, Society Registrar and Trustee will also provide an update on her work in computerizing the cataloging of items in the collection.

Those attending the supper are requested to bring a hot dish, salad or dessert. All members and anyone interested in the work of the society are urged to attend.

Bethel Historical Society 2010 Barn Tour Included in Harvest Fest on Sept. 18

Approximately 10 barns will be highlighted on this year's Bethel Historical Society barn tour Sept. 18 as part of Harvest Fest, beginning at 10 a.m. and continuing through the day until 4 p.m. Barns still in use for agricultural operations and those converted to other purposes will be among those included in this always popular event. Details about the history of each barn will be provided on the ticket ($10 per person) issued for the tour and may be picked up the day of the event at the O'Neil Robinson House beginning at 9 a.m. Cider making, apple sauce-milling and traditional craft demonstrations are expected to be among some of the activities offered in particular barn locations throughout the day.

The Sunday River School will also be open during the afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m.

Founded in 1968, the Bethel Historical Society is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive historical agency.

With over 1,000 members, the society fosters a sense of place - with a focus on western Maine and the White Mountain region - by collecting, preserving, displaying and interpreting historically significant artifacts and documents for residents, visitors, students, and scholars.

WMNF seeks volunteers for National Public Lands Day

National Public Lands Day is the largest volunteer hands-on activity of its kind in the nation.

Held on the last Saturday in September each year, the event brings together individuals and volunteers to refurbish and restore the country's public lands. On Saturday, Sept. 25, over 170,000 volunteers will visit their favorite parks, beaches, wildlife preserves, or National Forests to help improve these treasured places.

Come join the White Mountain National Forest in celebrating the largest, single-day volunteer event for public lands in our country.

"This is a fantastic opportunity to come out and enjoy the beauty of the White Mountain National Forest, while helping to preserve and protect this special place that so many visit to hike, climb, swim, explore, picnic or just plain relax," said Colleen Mainville, White Mountain National Forest Volunteer Coordinator. Choose from one of the following opportunities on Sept. 25 to "lend a hand" on the White Mountain National Forest. Meet at the Lincoln Woods Visitor Center, Kancamagus Highway, Lincoln, N.H., at 9 a.m. for a basic trail maintenance project on the Discovery Trail. Volunteers will need a day pack with rain gear, lunch, water, long pants, work gloves, and hiking boots. All other tools and supplies will be included.

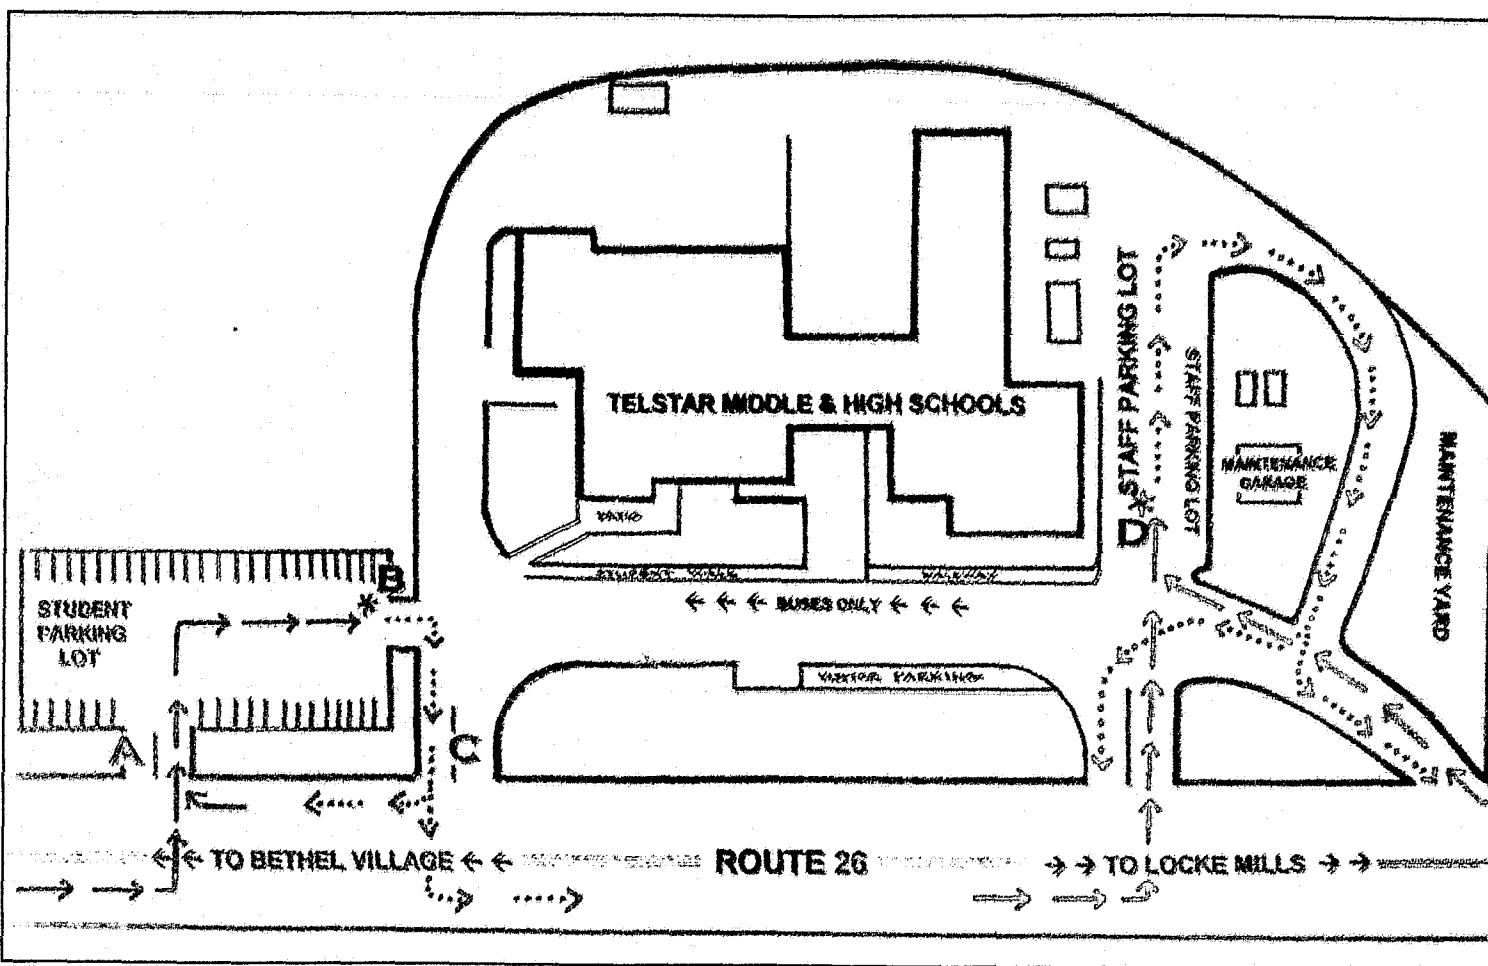

Meet at the Russell Colbath Barn, Kancamagus Highway, Conway, N.H., at 9 a.m. for a basic trail maintenance project on the Nancamomuck Trail.

Volunteers will need a day pack with rain gear, lunch, water, long pants, work gloves, and hiking boots. All other tools and supplies will be included.

In addition to these volunteer opportunities the White Mountain National Forest is also joining the rest of the country in waiving day-use fees.

However, fees will remain in effect for overnight camping, cabin rentals, permits, reservations, and activities offered by concessionaires.

For more information about National Public Lands Day, or for other volunteer opportunities on the White Mountain National Forest, contact Colleen Mainville at: (603) 536.6243 or cmainville@fs.fed.us.

NEW MORNING TRAFFIC FLOW AT TELSTAR—Changes are planned beginning next week for the traffic flow at the Telstar complex's school morning arrival drop-off area for students and for student drivers. These changes are effective Wednesday, Sept. 15. Starting at 7 a.m. and ending at 7:50 a.m. all parents and student drivers are to enter the "A" Entrance on diagram (Student Parking Lot Rt. 26 entrance). Designated Entrances/Exits are only in effect during these times. Upon entering the student parking lot, parents should follow arrows to the designated 'student drop off' area, indicated as "B" on the diagram. Signage will also identify the student drop off area, and staff will monitor and assist with this area. All student drivers are to enter through "A" Entrance for their school morning arrival. Once students are dropped off at the designated area, traffic flow is to exit, following arrows, out through Exit "C" on diagram, onto Route 26. Students who have sports equipment, school projects or physical medical conditions requiring close proximity to entering school are to use the far southern entrance, designated "D" on diagram, into the Telstar staff parking lot and enter the school building. To exit, traffic flow will continue to end of staff parking lot, bearing right, continuing around the maintenance building, and exit onto Rt. 26. Parents should make prior arrangements with school administrators for this specific arrangement. The changes are intended to help ensure student and pedestrian safety, while increasing effective traffic flow of morning traffic entering the Telstar campus.

Functionality In The Home Named Top Priority

(HIT) - The majority (56%) of homeowners cite functionality as their largest concern when it comes to renovating their homes, according to the latest consumer poll conducted by the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI).

Functionality of the home generally starts with good design. Remodelers can help homeowners take special care to look for the missing details in any home design—from the location of the electrical outlets to the location of light switches.

To address concerns, homeowners should think about how they intend to use the space in the future. Young families with small children may use the space differently than empty-nesters. Multi-generational households oftentimes require universal design principles to be incorporated to increase the accessibility for everyone who lives in the home. NARI remodelers have the ability to tap into the special needs of their clients and incorporate them into the design.

"It's all about personalization—homeowners want to know that their space can be converted easily into a different space in the future," Zuch says. "As children age and move out, they want to be able to make that space their own."

Before and after a planned remodel

When planning a remodel, here are a couple details you may want to think about:

- Where you want electrical outlets, telephone jacks and cable hook ups.
- What type of lighting is required—perhaps you'll want to add a skylight or recessed lighting.
- Blending the design of new living space into existing living space.
- Your current and future storage needs.
- Universal features to accommodate the needs of a broader range of people throughout their lifetimes.

These details will enable your remodeling contractor to help implement a design that best suits your needs and lifestyle. Consulting with a professional will provide you with ideas to increase convenience, time and money-saving hints for your particular project.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

TIPS FOR MODERNIZING YOUR BATHROOM

(StatePoint) Whether your bathroom is in need of repairs or you're simply looking to create a more welcoming space, modernizing can be a fun and cost-effective experience.

With the right fixtures, you can create a space that's environmentally healthy and safe.

Safety Counts

While most bathrooms have electrical outlets, many older homes haven't been upgraded to include circuit breakers and switched outlets which prevent electrical appliances, like hair dryers, from overloading circuits and causing electrocution or fires. Given the dampness of most bathrooms, the first thing to consider is to make sure wiring is up to code and safe.

Homeowners should also consider the air quality within the bathroom as a potential safety hazard, especially since many homes have tight air envelopes, meaning air doesn't circulate freely.

Mold and mildew are particularly bad for people with respiratory problems like asthma or allergies. Fortunately, you can install a modern ventilation fan that inhibits growth of contaminants, such as Panasonic's WhisperCeiling or WhisperLite, which circulate air extremely quietly—making them more likely to be used. And consider fans that come with a light and nightlight option for extra illumination in the bathroom, providing extra safety.

New materials keep bathrooms cleaner and more comfortable.

Clean and Beautiful

Consider both big and small items when beautifying your space, paying attention to materials that will keep it cleaner. From large pieces like countertops to soap and toothbrush holders, there are many options using modern materials that do double-duty.

Nowadays, one-piece sink and countertops, such as those made by Sonoma Stone or Zodiac, not only provide a sleek look, but their continuous smooth surfaces are resistant to stains and mildew, making them easier to clean than traditional sinks.

Even outlet covers, switches and ventilation fans can be attractive, instead of eyesores. In addition to maintaining air quality and a quiet, serene environment, ventilation fans now come with decorative grills. The better models even inhibit mold and mildew, helping maintain your new look longer.

Powerful Savings

Modernize your shower head to conserve water without sacrificing comfort. Conserving water used to mean low-flow shower heads that were low on water pressure, making it difficult to wash out shampoo or relax tired muscles. You no longer have to choose. Many modern shower heads provide both low-flow and high-pressure settings.

The same goes for toilet bowls. Low-flow is now accompanied by new technologies, such as dual-flush options, that use varying amounts of water depending on what you're flushing.

For energy savings, consider LED or fluorescent light bulbs. You even can save energy by selecting a bathroom ventilation fan that consumes less electricity than traditional ones. For example, Panasonic's WhisperGreen is Energy Star rated and is 550 percent more energy efficient than Energy Star standards. Such choices will help you save on energy bills.

With just a few tips, you can create a bathroom that's clean, sleek, healthy, safe and cost-effective. You can't get more modern than that!
